Why our employees make a difference to your bottom line.

When it comes to choosing the provider to handle your document printing, copying, and imaging needs, consider the vital importance of your administrative staff's productivity. Administrative costs to your company must be managed by constant improvement in efficiency. Your staff is working diligently to increase your bottom line, and the efficiency of your office equipment is crucial to keeping costs reasonable. In partnering with CCTI to provide top quality equipment, you can expect service by top quality employees, and together this combination makes us stand out from the competition. Results from many surveys continually remind us of what our employees do every day to keep our customers happy and their offices productive.

Our employees are different.....Copy & Camera's employees are owners. Creating employee-owners through the Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) has been a fundamental part of the mission to assure that customer satisfaction remains the ultimate priority of all employees. In my 10+ years with the company, I have witnessed the emphasis on taking care of the employees who will then take care of each and every customer. In the past two years, the company has sent 10 different employees on paid vacations with their families as a reward for 10, 15, 20, and even 25 years of dedicated service. Giving ownership and rewards that make a difference to our employees assures that employees want to make a difference to our customers.

Our employees are always listening to our customers and developing ideas of how to better meet their needs. From new products and services, faster response times, more efficient management of supply shipments, as well as customized billing options, every department has the customer's best interest in mind. Employees in different departments constantly consult each other for advice and direction in helping a customer with a unique need, in order to make a difference that will encourage that customer to choose Copy & Camera Technologies for years to come.
